Prof Annatjie Faul

Founders

PTC has been founded by prof Annatjie Faul and dr Bertie Hanekom. Annatjie is currently the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs at the University of Louisville in Kentucky, USA and Bertie is the managing director of PTC. He obtained his PhD at the North West University (Potchefstroom Campus).

Dr Bertie Hanekom

How it all began ...

When Annatjie Faul and Bertie Hanekom met each other during a workshop in 1986, both had the same goal in mind: to find out what it means to counsel someone from a Christian perspective. Because they could not find programmes that really met these requirements, they decided to develop the programmes themselves. And so a partnership, which eventually led to the establishment of Perspective Training College (PTC) in 1991, began.

It was important to them that PTC's programmes are not only biblical accountable, but also outstanding in quality. This was easier said than done, being more like a case of "fools rush in where angels fear to tread". During the first few years they were literally treading water. Without any theoretical foundation and prior knowledge of pastoral counseling they had to do extensive research from which they developed their own programmes. The result was that Annatjie and Bertie developed a few therapy sheets and homework assignments for clients. Although these therapy sheets and homework assignments were very effective, they exposed themselves to much criticism as they did not have the foundational theory to under girth their approach. For the first few years, this was the modus operandi of PTC: first to develop and use tried and tested methods (the praxis) resulting in, the current foundational theory.

An anthropology as central benchmark and guideline

Then they met Dr Floris Knouws. At that stage he was busy with the formulation of a practical-theological anthropology for pastoral counseling therapy (his doctoral thesis was published in 1990 at Unisa). Dr Knouws immediately realized that his anthropology was the theoretical basis for what Annatjie and Bertie practiced. As a result Dr Knouws' thesis on anthropology became PTC's central theoretical philosophy and remains to this day one of PTC's "core" courses and the central benchmark and guideline of all programmes that PTC develops and presents. This anthropology thus openly declares what PTC believes about humanity.

Where Ecometrics comes from

At the same time the process of scale standardization was developed. Annatjie and Bertie soon realized that, if PTC really wanted to be unique and outstanding, they had to develop measurement scales. To achieve this, Annatjie studied in America for six months under Prof Walter Hudson where she mastered the process of scale standardization that led to the standardization of PTC's first assessment scales in 1994. This study was part of her doctoral studies at the former Rand Afrikaans University (RAU) and was published in 1995. As a result PTC developed the capability of measuring aspects of the above-mentioned anthropology scientifically, as this process takes the guesswork out of the helping process, is highly time efficient and makes it possible to counsel purposefully.

From pastoral counseling to functional therapy to life coaching

When they accredited the PTC programmes at the former Technikon SA (TSA), they decided to call it "Functional Therapy", as there were already similar courses accredited at the TSA. This name effectively summed up what PTC was all about: use everything that is functional - as long as it is ethical and effective!

Your client has a default future that will occur on its own if his life does not change. When he pays you he is paying you for his life to change.

Why Life Coaching?

As far as we know, the following options are available, should you want to register at a professional body:

	ICR	Council for Pastoral & Spiritual Counselors
Website	http://www.icr-coachregister.com	https://www.acrpafrica.com/council-for-pastoral-and-spiritual-counsellors-cpsc.html
Categories:	Associate Certified Life Coach Certified Life Coach	Religious Practitioner Advanced Religious Practitioner Religious Professional Religious Specialist

ICR Register refers to coaching as a form of counseling based upon an equal relationship in which the coach stimulates his / her client through a structured process to develop improved, more effective behavior, actions and performance.

COMENSA defines coaching as a professional, collaborative and outcomes-driven method of learning that seeks to develop an individual and raise self-awareness so that he or she might achieve specific goals and perform at a more effective level. Coaching is about creating change that helps to enhance performance and learning. Coaches emphasize new competencies, learning and goal attainment. In fact, a coach is a personal navigator for the journey of life, focusing on the wants and needs of the client. Everything in coaching hinges on listening with the client's agenda in mind.

At PTC, we decided to choose the Life Coaching option. The aforementioned definitions of coaching are 100% in line with the vision, mission and helping model PTC advocates.

Training Programme in Life Coaching

The Neuroscience & Life Coaching programme is the result of:

- Four doctoral studies at UNISA and UJ (previously RAU) and the NWU (Potchefstroom Campus)
- Two M.A. degrees at UJ (previously RAU) and the NWU (Potchefstroom Campus)

The programme was developed from the dynamic interaction between theology, psychology, neurology and the social sciences, enabling you to follow an integrated approach towards therapy.

Students are trained to help teens as well as adults. Although the programme is theoretically sound, MLNP™ Life Coaching focuses on the actual practice of pastoral care/coaching, structures the helping process and enables helpers to help more effectively.

Our Neuroscience & Life Coaching course is currently used with great success to:

- help clients (teens and adults) to maximize their potential and live fulfilling lives, in spite of circumstances or bad experiences, with special attention given to behaviour- and adjustment problems.
- Develop insight and understanding into clients' functioning that will help the coach to motivate them and enrich their lives on a personal level.
- help people to manage their lives and problems effectively and responsibly.
- help people to prioritize their problems, to live in the here and now, identify and utilize underutilized opportunities, and get the most out of difficult situations.

Our Neuroscience & Life Coaching Course enables you to:

- assess quickly and effectively;
- get clients involved, enthusiastic and motivated;
- coach with a specific vision and structure;
- use thoroughly tested frameworks in a practical, simple and visual way.

Every time you coach you change the world!

PTCFundi

After enrolment, all study guides and material are being made available to students on PTCFundi (PTC's advanced e-learning platform) and you can start with your studies immediately. Mutual contact through the Internet will also be established.

Access to the Internet and computer technology have become indispensable to complete our programmes successfully! It is therefore REQUIRED of students to have access to this technology as well as to be computer literate!

Webinars & In-Service Training

The webinars and in-service training form part of the practical training (CPX courses included). To pass a CPX course, students have to attend all the webinars (first & second semester). Student-mentor interaction is still the best way of learning, therefore all webinars are compulsory and must be attended during your training programme. Although introductory lectures are presented on every module, the focus of the webinars is on the practical application of the integrated theory. Students only really discover the praxis of Life Coaching and start to grasp how to apply Pastoral Care & Life Coaching in practice during the webinars.

Additional Selection Criteria

Potential students will be required to provide PTC with their full academic record in order to assess the rate and level at which they had completed their previous qualification. References may be required to obtain character witnesses. Learners who are unsuccessful in gaining entrance to a programme will be advised on what they need to do to become competent.

Procedure for Enrolment

1. Please complete the attached enrolment form.
2. Please read through the financial agreement carefully and make sure you understand the content.
